

GERMANY'S BASIC LAW

Part VI. WHO'S BEING FOOLED?

Very few in the United States are going to worry much about what happens to the German people for the next generation.

The World War was their doing. They have earned all the punishment already inflicted, and a great deal more. They threw reason and common-sense to the winds, following the bright fantasies of "Lebensraum" as depicted by the late Adolph Hitler.

From the nature of things, Hitler had to fool the German people before he took them over—and they shouldn't have let themselves be fooled.

If the only question involved in discussion of the German basic law, as recently dictated by the American State Department, was its impact on the citizens of occupied Germany, this series would never have been written.

It may very well be that in the demoralized social and political state of affairs in Western Germany, there is need for a powerful, strongly centralized government—to keep this generation of Germans strictly in line, and hold things together until another and wiser generation grows up.

That has been the Stalin thesis since the end of the war. The technical reason for the breakdown of relations between Stalin and Truman was that Stalin insisted on precisely what our State Department has now provided—strong centralization, "dynamic democracy," and very little nonsense about the Germans being allowed to rule themselves.

President Truman held out for some four years for the proposition that there must be only loose centralization, with final authority over post-war Germany's government lodged in the German people.

The fact of the matter is, as anyone who has read these articles or who examines the documents for himself will agree, that President Truman's State Department has set up substantially what Stalin has wanted all along—a thinly disguised dictatorship, with ultimate power over the German people being lodged in a Chancellor who has no fixed term of office, who is almost impossible of removal, and who is beyond both the people themselves and the other branches of government when it comes to curbing or controlling his actions.

Whether this is what Mr. Truman expected, or wanted, is a matter between him and his State Department.

But the really important point, from the American citizen's point of view, is that the Truman Administration announced the German basic law as being "democratic," as being a form of free republic, as closely following the general pattern of the American Constitution.

ANY SUCH PRESENTATION IS A FRAUD!

The basic law itself, and most of the propaganda written about it, are studies in deception.

Either the Americans who boast that this code copies the American Constitution don't know what's really in that document, or they don't believe in the Constitution's principles.

The prime purpose of these articles is simply to disprove one of the most fraudulent statements ever made on behalf of an Administration that has been notorious for the ways in which it has beguiled and deceived its own people—the statement that the new German basic law is "modeled" on the American Constitution, that it gives the German people a free democratic government, and that the German citizens are guaranteed the same unalienable rights asserted on our behalf in our own basic laws.

In disproving such assertions, these articles have quoted directly from the officially translated text of the basic law to show how completely every assurance of free government is destroyed in this program worked out for the German people.

A government without brakes is dictatorship—at best a benevolent dictatorship, but one which can turn "tough" overnight.

There are no brakes provided by the internal machinery of the new German government. As noted before, the existence of a veto clause in the agreement among the several Allies responsible for the future of Germany may at any time prevent the brake from being applied from outside Germany.

What are the brakes which should exist to keep a high officer such as the new German Chancellor from becoming a dictator?

A fixed term of office, at the end of which he must submit himself to the will of the electorate, would be one such brake. But the Chancellor has no fixed term.

Power of removing the head of the executive branch by the people's branch, the legislature, would be another brake. But the legislators cannot touch the Chancellor on their own initiative—and could produce the dissolution of their own branch of government if they resist him.

Safeguarding the control over laws and taxes in the legislative branch would be another possible brake. But the Chancellor, in the new German plan, is empowered to write many of his own laws, and to proceed with government spending whether a budget is enacted or not.

An independent judiciary, empowered to restrain the Chancellor from exceeding his authorities, and available to the people for the protection of their fundamental rights, would be another brake. But the complicated judicial lay-out has little real contact with the constitutional questions except in the field of deciding disputes between units in the executive branch.

The greatest deterrent of dictatorship is public opinion freely expressed. But this needs two supporting foundations—first, access to the facts of government's acts and policies; second, guaranteed freedom of press, speech and assembly.

The new German government is specifically authorized to bar the doors from the public's access in many of its most important functions, and it is further authorized to limit freedom of press, speech and assembly by laws and interpretations of laws.

Censorship by the government can be exercised, under the new German basic law, either at the source, which is the printed or spoken comment on this information, together with the assembling of citizens to discuss the government's record.

As to the nature of the dictatorship for which the German basic law, as approved by our State Department, provides—there is little room for question about that.

It is the same that Hitler had—National Socialism.

The underlying thesis of National Socialism is very simple, very understandable.

In free economies and free governments, whatever your use belongs to you after you have paid taxes on it, and providing that your use of it doesn't infringe on the rights of others.

Under Socialism, it doesn't belong to you—it belongs to the community.

FIRE POLICE GIVEN LAW INTERPRETATION

Over 150 Meet in The Fire Station at Cornwells Heights

OFFICERS NOMINATED

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 21—More than 150 fire police, representing 27 companies, were told by William S. Ettenger, Newtown, who is president of the Bucks County Fire Police Association, that there is absolutely no law to prevent a "fireman who is on official business, although he is driving his own car, from following a fire engine as close as he wishes."

President Ettenger, who wrote the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, for a legal clarification of the motor vehicle code with reference to following fire engines too closely, was astonished to receive a communication from Otto F. Messner, Acting Secretary of Revenue, which indicated this flagrant loophole.

Ever since the organization of the Bucks County Fire Police Association, organized in 1945, fire police have maintained that the 500-foot law was also applicable to active firemen in their own cars.

"Volunteer firemen, in answering an alarm, are classified as being on official business and legally are not held down to the 500-foot law," said Acting Secretary of Revenue Messner.

President Ettenger, who said to the firemen, "Don't let your job get too big for you," pointed out that they still can prevent "fire happy motorists and morbidly curious motorists" from breaking the 500-foot law and protect the fire engine.

Charles Roeschen, Trevese fireman, said: "We might as well follow up." Ralph K. Wasser, James Manor, and one of the Bucks County Firemen's Association vice-presidents, said: "I think we are making a mountain out of a mole hill. We are supposed to help the active firemen and seek their cooperation."

MISS COCCI IS WED IN CEREMONY AT ST. ANN'S

Escorted To The Altar By Her Brother, Mr. Armando Cocci

A PRETTY CEREMONY

The one serving as flower girl at the wedding of Miss Virginia Cocci in St. Ann's Church this morning at 10 o'clock, wore a gown identical to that of the bride, Miss Cocci, who was escorted to the altar by her brother, Mr. Armando Cocci, took the vows which united her in marriage to Mr. Russell DiMaggio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter DiMaggio, Trenton, N. The bridal gown, likewise the one worn by the flower girl, Anna Mari, Jefferson avenue was of white satin, with rhinestones trimming the ruffle which outlined the neckline. A ruffle of lace and one of satin edged the hem of the full skirt and the lengthy train. The bride wore a rhinestone tiara, with insets of rhinestones which held a net veil, fingertip in length, and which was

Have Pleasant Visit At Historic Bartram House

An interesting tour was taken yesterday afternoon by 33 members of the Travel Club to the gardens and house of John Bartram, 54th street and Elmwood avenue, Philadelphia. The trip was made in a chartered bus, and although the inclemency of the weather somewhat marred the occasion, as the gardens could not be toured, yet a pleasant afternoon was spent in the ancient and historic house of the Bartrams.

Dr. Edward E. Wildman, prominent conservationist, greeted the Bristol visitors, and escorted them through the mansion. Dr. Wildman pointed out the many interesting aspects and told of the historical association of the mansion with the Bartram family. Many anecdotes of the Bartrams were related by Dr. Wildman. Portions of the grounds were viewed from the windows, and the vistas afforded an idea of the landscaping and attractiveness of the grounds.

Numerous large trees, said to be direct descendants of some of the seeds and saplings that came to the gardens in Bartram's saddle-bags, were a center of interest.

John Bartram, the great colonial botanist, was born in Pennsylvania in 1699 and died in 1777, and the Bartram house and gardens have been preserved by the John Bartram Association, founded in 1895 by his descendants and admirers.

GRAND JURY FILES INSPECTION REPORT

Visit The County Buildings And Find Conditions Satisfactory

SOME CASES HEARD

DOYLESTOWN, May 21—The Grand Jury for the May Sessions of Bucks County Criminal Court submitted its report and several cases of guilty were heard in addition to domestic relations cases.

The Grand Jury report, signed by Harry E. Oliver, Andalusia florist, certified that 39 bills of indictment were before that body and that 29 bills were returned "true bills," and one was ignored.

An inspection of the Bucks County Prison by the jurors yesterday brought commendation to the prison warden and his staff. The jury, however, recommended that the prison library should be built up. Very few current magazines and few books are in the prison library. The jury suggested that authorities contact some service organization that may be interested in building up the library.

The Bucks County Home was found to be in a well-kept condition and the jury complimented the county authorities for having selected a professional man to supervise that institution rather than a layman. The jury noted for the erection of an elevator in the County Home for the old folks, was stressed in the report.

The Grand Jury found conditions in the Court House "quite crowded" with wall space at a premium. Ex-

Urges All Veterans To Wear Poppy As Example

All members of the Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, were called upon to wear a poppy starting today and continuing through Memorial Day, in a special message issued by Lawrence McCoy, commander of the Bracken Post of the Legion.

Urging that veterans of both world wars set an example of reverence for the war dead by wearing the memorial flower throughout the period, Commander McCoy said:

"Passage of the years has not dimmed our memory of those comrades of ours who served by our sides and who gave their lives for America. Let us, then, show that we remember them and honor their sacrifice by wearing our memorial flower, the poppy, on Poppy Day. In this observance war veterans should set the example for all citizens."

"Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters will distribute the flowers on the streets on these Poppy Days and receive contributions for welfare work among needy veterans and veterans' children. Knowing as we do the great and growing need for this phase of Legion and Auxiliary activity, we should be as generous as our means permit when receiving our poppies."

"Members of the American Legion should be among the first to put on poppies today and should give every co-operation toward making the observance of the period a complete success."

"Poppy contributions make up a large part of the financial support for the Auxiliary's rehabilitation and child welfare activities. When the Auxiliary finds a veteran or a veteran's family in need, those poppy contributions go into action to provide aid."

"All the Auxiliary's Poppy workers are unpaid volunteers and all money contributed for the flowers of memory goes into the rehabilitation and child welfare funds—none being used for organization overhead."

UNUSUAL INTEREST

Gerhart Eisler, enemy alien communist convicted of contempt of Congress and of perjury, has attempted to turn his petty offenses into an international incident. After making speeches at many American colleges, he jumped his $20,000 bail, sailed as stowaway on the Polish liner Batory, and was discovered en route to Europe. British officials arrested him when the Batory was tied up in Southampton harbor, as they were obliged to do under the Anglo-American extradition treaty.

Eisler protested he had been "kidnapped" by "gendarmes of American reaction" after running away from "certain death at the hands of the gestapo in the United States."

The most unusual feature of the case was the protest of the Polish embassy in London. Why should Poland be interested in trying to protect a fugitive from American justice? Eisler is not a Pole but a German.

J. Edgar Hoover calls Eisler a Communist agent. Louis P. Budenz has testified that Eisler was Moscow's top agent in this country, transmitting subversive orders to native communists here. Eisler's own sister calls him "the perfect terrorist type." But he has not been convicted on any such charges because he has not even been tried on them.

He came here as a political "refugee" seeking asylum. He abused this nation's hospitality. The worst that is likely to happen to him is to serve a few years for peccayish offenses. Why should anyone try to make an international incident of that?

WORLD WHEAT PROSPECTS

An almost record crop of wheat is expected in the United States, but the surplus may not be as huge as was feared several weeks ago. Drouth is ravaging the crop in some other parts of the world. There may be a fairly good export market for American wheat.

Wheat acreage in Canada is larger than last year, but subsoil moisture so far is only 60 per cent of the 10-year average. Dominion wheat has already begun to deteriorate and the Canadian wheat crop may be small or at least below average. In that case the United States will step in to supply some of Canada's markets.

In Europe there is a smaller seeded acreage of wheat than last year and rainfall is inadequate. Several European countries may be forced to call upon United States stocks to supplement their own short harvests.

Wheat conditions in Australia and Argentina are generally favorable. But Argentina has been pricing its grain above the world market and may have trouble regaining some former export customers.

If optimistic wheat prospects are borne out in the United States, there will still be a vast surplus. But it will be less burdensome if the indicated Canadian and European wheat crop failures materialize.

At 7:45 p. m., one of France's outstanding opera conductors, Willy Thunis, will give a sacred concert. Mr. Thunis was a favorite of the opera in Paris before the war, but was forced to flee from his native country with the German invasion. Coming to this country he worked in various war plants and kept his identity as a singer in the background until the closing days of the war. He has resumed his singing during the past few years, and has toured the country from coast to coast, taking the message of Christianity to large audiences through the medium of the great oratorios and other works of the masters. Besides singing in many large churches, and over the radio, Mr. Thunis has given recitals in the auditorium at Ocean Grove, N. J.

WILLY THUNIS

In this, his first appearance in Bucks County he will present the following program: "God My Shepherd" (Bach), "My Dearest Jesus I Have Lost Thee" (Bach), "If With All Your Hearts" (Mendelssohn), "O Burne Redeemer" (Gounod), "Panis Angelicus" (Franck), "Lord Vouchsafe Thy Loving Kindness" (Rossini), "Amen" (Hummel), "The Lord's Prayer" (Malotte). Miss Tracy will accompany Mr. Thunis on the organ.

That's what the Communists believe, too. The Communists after all are nothing more than Socialists-in-a-hurry. The word Communist derives from the word "common" - meaning property owned by everyone; just as the village "commons" was a pasture where any citizen could graze his stock.

One of the euphemisms for the words National Socialist, or Communism, which have come to have unpleasant connotations to many ears, is the current term, "welfare state."

The German word for "welfare" apparently showed up several times in the original text as approved by the Constituent Convention. In many cases, however, the translators used the term "well-being," possibly to get away from the tag of "welfare-state."

But there is one place where the word "welfare" appears, with a significance sufficient to prove that the German plan is that of National Socialism, and the specific variety is that of the Welfare-State. This is in a brief passage possibly the most significant of the entire document. Article 14, paragraph 2, says:

"Property shall involve obligations. Its use shall simultaneously serve the general welfare." You can paste that one in your hat. Any basic law which thus denies or limits property rights, which are after all the most fundamental of all human rights, is not a charter of free government, nor of self-government, nor of anything worthy of the name "democracy."

Such a document is not a device for the protection of human liberty, but a weapon for its destruction. The men like Washington and Hamilton, who did so much to create the American Constitution, and Jefferson who was so insistent that it protect freedom by the inclusion of its Bill of Rights, and Lincoln, who saved the Union created by that Constitution—these and other patriotic founders of American liberty would roll over in their graves to find the German basic law Masquerading as being modeled after the American pattern they founded and preserved.

Music Appreciation Program Presented Before Sorosis

LANGHORNE, May 21—A music appreciation program was enjoyed, and officers installed, when Langhorne Sorosis members held their final meeting for the season in Langhorne library, Thursday afternoon. This was a guest day.

Mrs. Horace Townsend was re-installed as president, the installation ceremony being in charge of Mrs. Henry Ridge, past president. A gift was presented to the latter on behalf of club members.

The music department of which Mrs. Phillip Lewis is chairman, was in charge of the afternoon program. She introduced Mrs. Miriam Weakley, Philadelphia, who by means of phonograph records and vocal and piano solo gave a delightful demonstration of music appreciation.

Mrs. Weakley traced music from its early beginning, down through the Chinese, French, Latin-American and American music. As a finale she played and sang a group of selections by Philadelphia composers—these being popular, serious and sacred numbers, also folk songs. She requested that club members sing these with her.

Reports of the state federation of women's clubs, held recently at Pittsburgh, were given by Mrs. Edward Pickering. Mrs. Herbert Roemmel, and Mrs. Townsend.

Announcement was made of a reciprocity luncheon on Thursday next in St. James' parish house. Guests will include presidents of various clubs in Bucks County, also Mrs. William Moyer, Perkasie, and Mrs. Wilmer Fisher, Morrisville, retiring president and president, respectively, of Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. R. L. Carlson, Pastor
Harriman Methodist Church

"We are partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end. Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession."

"For we have not a high priest who cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was, in all points, tempted like as we are, yet without sin."

"Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." (from the Holy Scripture)

Dear Lord, teach us to come to Thy throne of grace in prayer to receive grace and mercy. Amen.

Members of the Sunday School Class, Bristol Methodist Church, taught by Mrs. William Mohr, held a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul Wisegarver, Maple Shade. ent time real estate is carrying 60 per cent of the tax load cost of our schools. He said that it was his opinion that real estate is not a good basic tax for general government purposes anywhere in this country.

A big Bucks county problem, the educator pointed out, is providing adequate school facilities here in Bucks county. One thing is certain, there cannot be large high schools in all communities, he said.

"For years the school situation in Bucks county was not very encouraging," he continued. "When the State took over in 1911, improvement started."

"But do you realize that today in Bucks county there are 91 school buildings that are unfit for school use according to standards. Only three of the 19 high schools in the county have adequate libraries. Only two out of the 19 have an auditorium where all students can meet at the same time. Only one high school in the county has an adequate cafeteria."

Superintendent Boehm said that no high school can be built now for less than $1,000,000.

The speaker discussed the reorganization of the school districts of the county and related the progress already made. The joint board policy in Bucks county has made great progress possible, he said.

The Council members were informed that in Bucks county approximately $240 is being spent on each high school student, and in some elementary schools, less than $100 is being spent on the pupils.

"I can report that in the future there will be a great deal more money spent on the elementary students," Boehm said. He also said that provision is now being made for behavior clinics to be conducted in Bucks county weekly. Bucks county also has a fine film library, the speaker told the women. Next September Bucks county school children will have the advantage of a fine arts library made possible by the artists of the county and other support.

Superintendent Boehm urged the women to take an active interest in the school because, as he said, "it is your business."

The meeting was presided over by Mrs. Norman W. Lear, Doylestown, president of the Council, who introduced the guests including Clinton Ohlinger, New Hope, and Harris Holmes, Doylestown. Mrs. Minerva F. Martin, chairman of the membership committee, reported 727 members, including 565 in this Council and the remainder in the Lower Bucks Council.

Miss Eleanor D. Worthington, of Hartsville, submitted a detailed report for the chairman of the legislative committee, mentioning in particular a fine address that she heard recently by Senator Hill on public health and medical care. She said that she was quite certain that socialized medicine is not wanted by those who realize what it will mean in taxes. She said that at a recent meeting in Philadelphia it was the opinion that some type of socialized medicine is coming but that it should not be administered by the Federal Government.

Mary Yardley, reporting as chairman of the political activities committee, outlined the elections schedules of the county for the next few years. The primary election this year will be on Sept. 13. County offices to be elected include Judge, Sheriff, Controller, Recorder of Deeds, Jury Commissioner, Prothonotary and District Attorney.

Mrs. John W. Cooper, of Doylestown, honorary president of the Council, urged the ladies to work for increased interest on the part of the women in politics.

"When you hear a person who is dissatisfied with local government and the people who run things, remember that Bucks county has one of the very finest records in the entire State," Mrs. Cooper said. "Bucks county has always been governed efficiently. Ask those who complain, what they have done personally to make an improvement. The trouble is that a lot of times we blame people for things we are to be blamed for ourselves."

edged in lace. Doeskin slippers were worn by the bride, who carried the processional a white prayer book topped with gardenias and stephenotis. This was exchanged at the altar for a heart-shaped and lace-edged bouquet of gardenias, and stephenotis, with two white orchids at the center. The flower girl also wore a beaded tiara and short net veil, and her heart-shaped bouquet was formed of gardenias, white iris and stephenotis, with edge of lace.

The adult attendants of the bride were three in number. Mrs. Thomas Breslin, Corson street, the matron of honor, wore aqua; Miss Mary DiMaggio, Trenton, a sister of the bride-groom, lavender, and Miss Theresa Swinbach, Seaside Park, N. J., Nile green, the latter two being bridesmaids. Their gowns were of faille, with long detachable sleeves. They featured net yokes. Silver slippers were worn, and their heart-shaped hats of marquisette matched their gowns. Their bouquets were shaped like hearts also, and edged with lace. Mrs. Breslin carried pink roses, and the other two attendants yellow rose-buds.

Serving as best man was Mr. Thomas Mascarella, Trenton; as usher, Mr. John Nalbano, Trenton; and ring bearer, Thomas Breslin, Jr., Corson street.

As vocal duets, Miss Ann Johnson and Paul Leporski, Croyston, offered "The Rosary," "On This Day Oh Beautiful Mother," and "Mother, at your Feet is Kneeling." Miss Johnson gave as a solo "Ave Maria." They were accompanied by Miss Frances Tamburilla.

Choice of Mrs. Cocci, the bride's mother, for the wedding, was a white-dotted, navy blue dress in bengler, and navy blue accessories. The bride-groom's mother was attired in a gray dress and black accessories. Both wore red rose corsages.

Following the wedding a dinner is to be served in Roman Hall, Trenton, to members of the bridal party, and a reception is scheduled for four o'clock at the Cocci home. The newlyweds will leave by plane for Bermuda, they remaining in the islands for two weeks. Travelling costume of the bride will consist of a cocoa-toned suit, Panama hat, brown and white accessories, Kollinsky neckpiece, and a corsage of white orchids.

The two plan to live at 351 Lincoln avenue. Mrs. DiMaggio, a graduate of Bristol high school, presented her attendants with rhinestone chokers and earrings; and the flower girl with a cross and chain. Mr. DiMaggio gave the men in the bridal party and the ring bearer miraculous medals. He is a graduate of a Trenton high school, and is employed by C. V. Hill Co. in that city.

cellent improvements are being made in the basement, the jury reported. The complete redecoration of the Court Room was suggested. The Grand Jury Room was described as noisy because of traffic conditions on the street below.

Raymond Adams, 26, of 217 South street, Allentown, pleaded guilty Wednesday before President Judge Hiram H. Keller to the part he played in several burglaries and stick-ups in the Perkassie section back in September, 1947, when the Owls' Home was robbed, and other places in Bucks and Lehigh counties entered.

Adams has been serving time in Lehigh County Prison, and was brought here yesterday for sentence in this jurisdiction. He was sentenced to pay a fine of $5 and costs and serve six months to 18 months in the Bucks County Prison. After completion of his term here he will be taken to Reading where Berks county has a detainer for him. Adams was arrested by State Police together with four others who are serving time in other jurisdictions.

Judge Keller Wednesday directed that Charles W. Moyer, Coopersburg R. D. 2 pants factory foreman, pay $10 a week toward the support of two of his four children. His wife, Pearl, 39, told Judge Keller that she did not desire support for herself. Moyer's employer informed the Court that Moyer makes $112½ per hour, but that he does not work a full week because of a heart condition.

No change in a present order of support for $15 a week was made Wednesday by Judge Keller after he had heard additional testimony in the application of Archie Ennis, of Bristol, who asked that the order be reduced.

Ennis was directed some months ago to pay his wife, Roberta, $15 a week. On April 6th, Ennis testified, he entered into an agreement with his wife to pay their daughter's tuition at the University of Kentucky, and that he thought that the additional $15 order was too much for him to pay without going into debt.

"I cannot imagine a father balking at a chance to pay his daughter's tuition in college," Judge Keller commented. "The court is not going to change the present order."

Mrs. Ennis is living in Lancaster, Kentucky, near her daughter's college. She is a personnel director of a large plant. Ennis, who is in the canning business in Bristol, with partners, testified that his take-home salary was $60.40. He said he could not tell the court just what the company made last year. The Ennis' own home in Bristol, in which Ennis lives himself, a home that is valued at $12,000.

Robert Dean, a Yardley Negro, pleaded guilty before Judge Keller yesterday to the theft of some tools from Joseph Roches, Jr., Yardley, on April 19th. He was directed to pay a fine of $25 and costs, and a prison sentence was suspended and the defendant placed on probation.

AN OPEN LETTER

Dear Friends
Last week the gang and I were at a loss as to where we could go and have one darn good time and above all where our pocket-book did not mean everything.

Somebody suggested THE PEACOCK MANOR. (Formerly the Lido Venice, ¼ mile above city line on Frankford Ave. (Route 13.) There the gang went; and did we have fun. The atmosphere was pleasant, a family spirit existed, the service was excellent, the waitress was . . . WOW, but you ought to see that bartender, Mr. John Spadaccino; better known as TINK. Everybody raves about him.

However, what got us were the PRICES. Remember the Lido Venice prices; well, THE PEACOCK MANOR prices are the direct opposite. We had enough money left over that we went back to the Peacock Manor twice more on the money we saved.

Oh, before I forget . . . we also had a wonderful time dancing to that grand and out-of-this-world orchestra of Joey Kaye.

Fun—fun—fun—fun was everywhere, because you could either play shuffle-board, look at television or dance to your heart's content.

How about you getting the gang or your girl-friend or sweet-heart and spending a grand evening at THE PEACOCK MANOR IN ANDALUSIA, Pa.

Sincerely,
AGNES and FRANK.

GERMANY'S BASIC LAW

Part VI. WHO'S BEING FOOLED?

Very few in the United States are going to worry much about what happens to the German people for the next generation.

The World War was their doing. They have earned all the punishment already inflicted, and a great deal more. They threw reason and common-sense to the winds, following the bright fantasies of "lebensraum" as depicted by the late Adolph Hitler.

From the nature of things, Hitler had to fool the German people before he took them over—and they shouldn't have let themselves be fooled.

If the only question involved in discussion of the German basic law, as recently dictated by the American State Department, was its impact on the citizens of occupied Germany, this series would never have been written.

It may very well be that in the demoralized social and political state of affairs in Western Germany, there is need for a powerful, strongly centralized government—to keep this generation of Germans strictly in line, and hold things together until another and wiser generation grows up.

That has been the Stalin thesis since the end of the war. The technical reason for the breakdown of relations between Stalin and Truman was that Stalin insisted on precisely what our State Department has now provided—strong centralization, "dynamic democracy," and very little nonsense about the Germans being allowed to rule themselves.

President Truman held out for some four years for the proposition that there must be only loose centralization, with final authority over post-war Germany's government lodged in the German people.

The fact of the matter is, as anyone who has read these articles or who examines the documents for himself will agree, that President Truman's State Department has set up substantially what Stalin has wanted all along—a thinly disguised dictatorship, with ultimate power over the German people being lodged in a Chancellor who has no fixed term of office, who is almost impossible of removal, and who is beyond both the people themselves and the other branches of government when it comes to curbing or controlling his actions.

Whether this is what Mr. Truman expected, or wanted, is a matter between him and his State Department.

But the really important point, from the American citizen's point of view, is that the Truman Administration announced the German basic law as being "democratic," as being a form of free republic, as closely following the general pattern of the American Constitution.

ANY SUCH PRESENTATION IS A FRAUD!

The basic law itself, and most of the propaganda written about it, are studies in deception.

Either the Americans who boast that this code copies the American Constitution don't know what's really in that document, or they don't believe in the Constitution's principles.

The prime purpose of these articles is simply to disprove one of the most fraudulent statements ever made on behalf of an Administration that has been notorious for the ways in which it has beguiled and deceived its own people—the statement that the new German basic law is "modeled" on the American Constitution, that it gives the German people a free democratic government, and that the German citizens are guaranteed the same unalienable rights asserted on our behalf in our own basic laws.

In disproving such assertions, these articles have quoted directly from the officially translated text of the basic law to show how completely every assurance of free government is destroyed in this program worked out for the German people.

A government without brakes is dictatorship—at best a benevolent dictatorship, but one which can turn "tough" overnight.

There are no brakes provided by the internal machinery of the new German government. As noted before, the existence of a veto-clause in the agreement among the several Allies responsible for the future of Germany may at any time prevent the brake from being applied from outside Germany.

What are the brakes which should exist to keep a high officer such as the new German Chancellor from becoming a dictator?

A fixed term of office, at the end of which he must submit himself to the will of the electorate, would be one such brake. But the Chancellor has no fixed term.

Power of removing the head of the executive branch by the people's branch, the legislative, would be another brake. But the legislators can't touch the Chancellor on their own initiative—and could produce the dissolution of their own branch of government if they resist him.

Safeguarding the control over laws and taxes in the legislative branch would be another possible brake. But the Chancellor, in the new German plan, is empowered to write many of his own laws, and to proceed with government spending whether a budget is enacted or not.

An independent judiciary, empowered to restrain the Chancellor from exceeding his authorities, and available to the people for the protection of their fundamental rights, would be another brake. But the complicated judicial lay-out has little real contact with the constitutional questions except in the field of deciding disputes between units in the executive branch.

The greatest deterrent of dictatorship is public opinion freely expressed. But this needs two supporting foundations—first, access to the facts of government's acts and policies; second, guaranteed freedom of press, speech and assembly.

The new German government is specifically authorized to bar the doors from the public's access in many of its most important functions, and it is further authorized to limit freedom of press, speech and assembly by laws and interpretations of laws.

Censorship by the government can be exercised, under the new German basic law, either at the source, which is information about the government; or at the outlet, which is the printed or spoken comment on this information, together with the assembling of citizens to discuss the government's record.

As to the nature of the dictatorship for which the German basic law, as approved by our State Department, provides—there is little room for question about that.

It is the same that Hitler had—National Socialism.

The underlying thesis of National Socialism is very simple, very understandable.

In free economies and free governments, whatever you earn belongs to you after you have paid taxes on it, and providing that your use of it doesn't infringe on the rights of others.

Under Socialism, it doesn't belong to you—it belongs to the community.

Over 150 Meet in The Fire Station at Cornwells Heights

OFFICERS NOMINATED

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, May 21—More than 150 fire police, representing 27 companies, were told by William S. Ettenger, Newtown, who is president of the Bucks County Fire Police Association, that there is absolutely no law to prevent a "fireman who is on official business, although he is driving his own car, from following a fire engine as close as he wishes."

President Ettenger, who wrote the Department of Revenue, Harrisburg, for a legal clarification of the motor vehicle code with reference to following fire engines too closely, was astonished to receive a communication from Otto F. Messner, Acting Secretary of Revenue, which indicated this flagrant loophole.

Ever since the organization of the Bucks County Fire Police Association, organized in 1945, fire police have maintained that the 500-foot law was also applicable to active firemen in their own cars.

"Volunteer firemen, in answering an alarm, are classified as being on official business and legally are not held down to the 500-foot law," said Acting Secretary of Revenue Messner.

President Ettenger, who said to the firemen, "Don't let your job get too big for you," pointed out that they still can prevent "five happy motorists and morbidly curious motorists" from breaking the 500-foot law and protect the fire equipment.

Charles Roeschen, Trevese fireman, said: "We might as well fold up." Ralph K. Wassner, James Manor, and one of the Bucks County Firemen's Association vice-presidents, said: "I think we are making a mountain out of a mole hill. We are supposed to help the active firemen and seek their cooperation."

The one serving as flower girl at the wedding of Miss Virginia Cocci in St. Ann's Church this morning at 10 o'clock, wore a gown identical to that of the bride. Miss Cocci, who was escorted to the altar by her brother, Mr. Armando Cocci, took the vows which united her in marriage to Mr. Russell DiMaggio, son of Mr. and Mrs. Peter DiMaggio, Trenton, N. J. Have Pleasant Visit At Historic Bartram House

An interesting tour was taken yesterday afternoon by 33 members of the Travel Club to the gardens and house of John Bartram, 54th street and Elmwood avenue, Philadelphia. The trip was made in a chartered bus, and although the inclemency of the weather somewhat marred the occasion, as the gardens could not be toured, yet a pleasant afternoon was spent in the ancient and historic house of the Bartrams.

Dr. Edward E. Wildman, prominent conservationist, greeted the Bristol visitors, and escorted them through the mansion. Dr. Wildman pointed out the many interesting aspects and told of the historical association of the mansion with the Bartram family. Many anecdotes of the Bartrams were related by Dr. Wildman. Portions of the grounds were viewed from the windows, and the vistas afforded an idea of the landscaping and attractiveness of the grounds.

Numerous large trees, said to be direct descendants of some of the seeds and saplings that came to the gardens in Bartram's saddle-bags, were a center of interest.

John Bartram, the great colonial botanist, was born in Pennsylvania in 1699 and died in 1777, and the Bartram house and gardens have been preserved by the John Bartram Association, founded in 1895 by his descendants and admirers.

Eight students, the presidents and secretaries of the four school classes will consign articles representing current school activities to the cornerstone.

The building is scheduled for completion by autumn at a cost of about $190,000.

GRAND JURY FILES INSPECTION REPORT

Visit The County Buildings And Find Conditions Satisfactory

SOME CASES HEARD

DOYLESTOWN, May 21—The Grand Jury for the May Sessions of Bucks County Criminal Court submitted its report and several pleas of guilty were heard in addition to domestic relations cases.

The Grand Jury report, signed by Harry E. Oliver, Andalusia florist, certified that 39 bills of indictment were before that body and that 29 bills were returned "true bills," and one was ignored.

An inspection of the Bucks County Prison by the jurors yesterday brought commendation to the prison warden and his staff. The jury, however, recommended that the prison library should be built up. Very few current magazines and few books are in the prison library. The jury suggested that authorities contact some service organization that may be interested in building up the library.

The Bucks County Home was found to be in a well-kept condition and the jury complimented the county authorities for having selected a professional man to supervise that institution rather than a layman. The urgent need for the erection of an elevator in the County Home for the old folks, was stressed in the report.

The Grand Jury found conditions in the Court House "quite crowded" with wall space at a premium. Ex-

LATEST NEWS BULLETINS

Alleged Notorious Criminals Taken to Doylestown

Doylestown—Two alleged notorious criminals were brought to the county jail here this morning from Alexandria, Va., after being arrested in that state for alleged theft of a new Willys-Knight car from a display room of Boyer Motor Co., Southampton, the night of March 8th. The two brought here in custody of Bucks Co. detective William L. Stackhouse, and Chief of Police Clarence E. Hoppe, Upper Southampton township, are: Daniel Callaway, 42, of 2199 block of Lombard street, and John Weeks, 25, of 1699 block Fitzwater street, both of Philadelphia. The two are said to have been operating the car ever since it was taken from the Boyer place. They were halted by Virginia state police for questioning, and are said not to have possessed either drivers' or owners' licenses. They made no admissions, authorities say. Virginia state police contacted Philadelphia police when they learned the two were from Philadelphia, the police in the latter city then notifying Bucks County authorities. Callaway is said to have been arrested 16 times and Weeks 14 times, Callaway was a parolee from Eastern State Penitentiary, and Weeks from Moyamensing. They are said to have been in and out of reform schools and prisons all of their lives. Charges at various times included car thefts, armed robberies, carrying concealed, deadly weapons, etc. Hearings will be held Monday evening before Justice of the Peace Fred Bickle, Jr., at Warmminster.

Urges All Veterans To Wear Poppy As Example

All members of the Bracken Post, No. 382, American Legion, were called upon to wear a poppy starting today and continuing through Memorial Day, in a special message issued by Lawrence McCoy, commander of the Bracken Post of the Legion.

Urging that veterans of both world wars set an example of reverence for the war dead by wearing the memorial flower throughout the period, Commander McCoy said: "Passage of the years has not dimmed our memory of those comrades of ours who served by our sides and who gave their lives for America. Let us, then, show that we remember them and honor their sacrifice by wearing our memorial flower, the poppy, on Poppy Day. In this observance war veterans should set the example for all citizens."

"Members of the American Legion Auxiliary, our wives, mothers, sisters and daughters will distribute the flowers on the streets on these Poppy Days and receive contributions for welfare work among needy veterans and veterans' children. Knowing as we do the great and growing need for this phase of Legion and Auxiliary activity, we should be as generous as our means permit when receiving our poppies. "Members of the American Legion should be among the first to put on poppies today and should give every co-operation toward making the observance of the period a complete success."

"Poppy contributions make up a large part of the financial support for the Auxiliary's rehabilitation and child welfare activities. When the Auxiliary finds a veteran or a veteran's family in need, those poppy contributions go into action to provide aid."

"All the Auxiliary's Poppy workers are unpaid volunteers and all money contributed for the flowers of memory goes into the rehabilitation and child welfare funds—none being used for organization overhead."

Moose Here Entertain; Plan Membership Drive

John Starr, regional director of L. O. O. M., gave a convocation talk in connection with present renovating of the Moose home Thursday evening. Mr. Starr flew here from Rochester, N. Y., where he attended the dedication of a new building.

He stated that with expansion in Bristol Moose lodge, the chapter should endeavor to open a membership drive. This the group did resolve to do; also to invite the public to view the new Moose home.

Mr. Starr told of benefits received by survivors of Moose members, reminding that "Moosehart" takes care of children and wives.

Ray Rumpff, governor of Rochester, N. Y., Moose, stated that his lodge is the fifth largest in the country.

The two were accompanied by Harry Howard, national ritual leader of L. O. O. M.

Supreme Moose director of New Jersey, Ray Clark, spoke of awards being given by Moose in New Jersey to outstanding youth of that state. Two scholarships will be presented by Alvin Barkley, V. P. of U. S. Similar attempts to select outstanding youths in Pennsylvania is forthcoming.

A representative of the American Legion requested Bristol Moose to sponsor sending of a boy to Keystone Boys Camp at Indiantown Gap for 10 days. Although it may be too late to do this this year the members stated their intention to pursue the matter next year.

Charter members are to be feted at an anniversary banquet in November. The annual picnic will be held in August.

ground until the closing days of the war. He has resumed his singing during the past few years, and has toured the country from coast to coast, taking the message of Chris-

UNUSUAL INTEREST

Gerhart Eisler, enemy alien communist convicted of contempt of Congress and of perjury, has attempted to turn his petty offenses into an international incident. After making speeches at many American colleges, he jumped his $20,000 bail, sailed
as stewardess on the Polish liner Batory, and was discovered en route to Europe. British officials arrested him when the Batory was tied up in Southampton harbor, as they were obliged to do under the Anglo-American extradition treaty.
Eisler protested he had been "kidnapped" by "gendarmes of American reaction" after running away from "certain death at the hands of the gestapo in the United States."

The most unusual feature of the case was the protest of the Polish embassy in London. Why should Poland be interested in trying to protect a fugitive from American justice? Eisler is not a Pole but a German.
J. Edgar Hoover calls Eisler
a Communist agent. Louis P.
Buden has testified that Eisler was Moscow's top agent in this country, transmitting subversive orders to native communists here.
Eisler's own sister calls him "the perfect terrorist type." But he has not been convicted on any such charges because he has not even been tried on them.
He came here as a political "refugee" seeking asylum. He abused this nation's hospitality.
The worst that is likely to happen to him is to serve a few years for peacetime offenses. Why should anyone try to make an international incident of that?

WORLD WHEAT PROSPECTS

An almost record crop of wheat is expected in the United States, but the surplus may not be as huge as was feared several weeks ago. Drouth is ravaging the crop in some other parts of the world.
There may be a fairly good export market for American wheat.
Wheat acreage in Canada is larger than last year, but subsoil moisture so far is only 60 per cent of the 10-year average. Dominion wheat has already begun to deteriorate and the Canadian wheat crop may be small or at least below average. In that case the United States will step in to supply
some of Canada's markets.
In Europe there is a smaller seeded acreage of wheat than last year and rainfall is inadequate.
Several European countries may be forced to call upon United States stocks to supplement their own short harvests.
Wheat conditions in Australia and Argentina are generally favorable. But Argentina has been pricing its grain above the world market and may have trouble regaining some former export customers.
If optimistic wheat prospects are borne out in the United States, there will still be a vast surplus. But it will be less burdensome if the indicated Canadian and European wheat crop failures materialize.

Germany's Basic Law
That's what the Communists believe, too. The Communists after all are nothing more than Socialists in a hurry. The word Communist derives from the word "common," meaning property owned by everyone; just as the village "commons" was a pasture where any citizen could graze his stock.
One of the euphemisms for the words National Socialist, or Communism, which have come to have unpleasant connotations to many ears, is the current term, "welfare state."
The German word for "welfare" apparently showed up several times in the original text as approved by the Constituent Convention. In many cases, however, the translators used the term "well-being"—possibly to get away from the tag of "welfare-state."
But there is one place where the word "welfare" appears, with a significance sufficient to prove that the German plan is that of National Socialism, and the specific variety is that of the Welfare-State.
This is in a brief passage possibly the most significant of the entire document. Article 14, paragraph 2, says:
"Property shall involve obligations. Its use shall simultaneously serve the general welfare."
You can paste that one in your hat. Any basic law which denies or limits property rights, which are after all the most fundamental of all human rights, is not a charter of free government, nor of self-government, nor of anything worthy of the name "democracy."
Such a document is not a device for the protection of human liberty, but a weapon for its destruction.
The men like Washington and Hamilton, who did so much to create the American Constitution, and Jefferson who was so insistent that it protect freedom by the inclusion of its Bill of Rights, and Lincoln, who saved the Union created by that Constitution—these and the other patriotic founders of American liberty would roll over in their graves to find the German basic law Masquerading as being modeled after the American pattern they founded and preserved.

Music Appreciation Program Presented Before Sorosis

LANGHORNE, May 21—A music appreciation program was enjoyed, and officers installed, when Langhorne Sorosis members held their final meeting for the season in Langhorne library, Thursday afternoon. This was a guest day.

Mrs. Horace Townsend was re-installed as president, the installation ceremony being in charge of Mrs. Henry Ridge, past president. A gift was presented to the latter on behalf of club members.

The music department of which Mrs. Phillip Lewis is chairman, was in charge of the afternoon program. She introduced Mrs. Miriam Weakley, Philadelphia, who by means of phonograph records and vocal and piano solo gave a delightful demonstration of music appreciation.

Mrs. Weakley traced music from its early beginning, down through the Chinese, French, Latin-American and American music. As a finale she played and sang a group of selections by Philadelphia composers—these being popular, serious and sacred numbers, also folk songs. She requested that club members sing these with her.

Reports of the state federation of women's clubs, held recently at Pittsburgh, were given by Mrs. Edward Pickering, Mrs. Herbert Rommelt, and Mrs. Townsend.

Announcement was made of a reciprocity luncheon on Thursday next in St. James' parish house. Guests will include presidents of various clubs in Bucks County, also Mrs. William Moyer, Perkasie, and Mrs. Wilmer Fisher, Morrisville, retiring president and president, respectively, of Bucks County Federation of Women's Clubs.

Today's Quiet Moment

By Rev. R. L. Carlson, Pastor
Harriman Methodist Church

"We are partakers of Christ, if we hold the beginning of our confidence steadfast unto the end. Seeing then that we have a great high priest, that is passed into the heavens, Jesus the Son of God, let us hold fast our profession."

"For we have not a high priest who cannot be touched with the feeling of our infirmities; but was, in all points, tempted like as we are, yet without sin."

"Let us therefore come boldly unto the throne of grace, that we may obtain mercy, and find grace to help in time of need." (from the Holy Scripture)

Dear Lord, teach us to come to Thy throne of grace in prayer to receive grace and mercy. Amen.

Members of the Sunday School Class, Bristol Methodist Church, taught by Mrs. William Mohr, held a meeting Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Paul Wisegarver, Maple Shade.
